A couple of the meets already have already been rained out, so the schedule of no less than 10 meets, gets under way today (Friday) when the Pointers travel to Hoover high school to compete there this afternoon. Coach Wm. Maxwell announces the following schedule of track meets in which he expects Point Loma to take part:

May 19, Divisional meet at State College.

Maxwell reports around 100 lads out for the team, with prospects for points a little better than the average. "We ought to do all right in copping firsts," he said Wednesday, "but are likely to be shy in collecting seconds and thirds. Of the 100 lads, about 70 are competing and from these 70 the three with the best marks in the trials in each event will be entered. Contestants are limited to two field events and one track event, or vice versa, plus any entry in relays, the coach stated.

Attention Called To Tax Exemptions For Service Men

Attention of servicemen and women was called this week by Commander Earl Shaw of Clyde Wright post of the American Legion to their rights under the tax laws of the state of California.

Certain tax exemptions to be deducted on the county assessor's assessed valuations placed on real and personal property belonging to servicemen and servicewomen are available under the state law provided they are residents of California, Commander Shaw declared Tuesday. He is anxious that all Ocean Beach servicemen and servicewomen now in the armed forces be informed of their tax exemption rights in this state.

At the March meeting, the local Legion post appointed a post service officer whose duty it is to assist Ocean Beach servicemen in every way possible. Ralph Chadwick of Ocean Beach was named to this office. He will be glad to provide information and can be reached in the evenings by telephoning him at his home, Bayview 6961, the commander advises. "They can also call me during the day at Bayview 3630, or they can phone the county assessor, Croweli D. Eddy, at his office, Main 3811," Shaw stated.

Regarding membership in the local Legion post, Shaw said Tuesday that several veterans of World War II already have joined this organization. At the March meeting, Herbert T. Webster of Ocean Beach, a World war I veteran was admitted to membership.

"While the national goal has been set at 150,000,000 pounds for the duration of the drive in April, no local goal has been set. But, if we are to hold up our share of the local load it will require the efforts of every citizen in our community," he savs.

School Districts Of County Receive $3,847,902 State Aid

The school districts of San Diego county are receiving $3,847,902 in direct aid from the state treasury for the current fiscal year, California Taxpayers' association said today, making public the third section of its study of state payments to local governments in California. In addition to aid from the state, property tax levies for the school districts in the county amount to $5,202,955 for the current fiscal year.

The state aportioned $2,438,374 for the 36,504 elementary pupils in average daily attendance credited to the county and $1,409,528 for the 15,365 high school average daily attendance.

State aid to the elementary school districts for next year and the years to come will be increased by at least one-third, because of the passage of Proposition No. 9 at the November, 1944, election, the association said.

"The governor's $684,000,000 state budget for the 1945-1947 biennium sets aside $417,000,000 for aid to local governments, with $216,000,000 for apportionment to school districts. Crary Explains Bay Development Plans Proposed

Kiwanis Speaker Also Urges Improvement Of Beaches

Shore line and Mission Bay improvement plans were explained by City Councilman G. C. Crary to the Tuesday evening meeting of the Ocean Beach Kiwanis club. He gave an enthusiastic talk, replete with figures and convincing arguments in favor of the proposed improvements. Al Hunt was program chairman.

The Mission Bay project, he said, includes an area of 3600 acres, about half water and half land, all of which is to be improved and numerous recreational facilities installed to the end that it should be an attraction drawing more tourists here from all over the United States as well as to provide nearby recreational facilities for the people of San Diego.

He compared this project with that at Newport, Calif., and gave figures to show that this would be much greater. The total estimated cost is $10,000,000, he said, and should the $2,000,000 bond issue be voted on Tuesday, April 17, the first real construction of the improvement will soon begin.

He showed maps that give the details of the Mission Bay improvement plan, one of which was turned over to the Ocean Beach News and which has been posted in the window of this newspaper office.

Crary intimated that when the kelp fishing beds are properly controlled between La Jolla and Point Loma there will be twice as many sport fishermen here as before the war and predicted that there likely would be as many as 200,000 a year. He estimated they will spend on the average not less than $35 each, making $7,000,000 as a conservative estimate of the amount of money they would leave in this area annually.

Wants Shore Improvement

The speaker also went into detail about the need for shore line improvement in San Diego county, and gave figures showing what the present shore line situation is particularly as to ownership of the beaches. Of the 70 miles of Pacific shore line in this county, he said, that the county owns only four and three fourths miles and the city only 12½ miles. Unfortunately most of the safe beaches of that shore line are privately owned, he said, so there is much work to be done by both the state and city, and that a real start has been made by the California Shore Line association.

Crary urged public acquisition of the safe beaches and particularly stressed the need for parks and parking areas along the ocean. Florida has made millions off its beaches and though we have here what comes nearest of all places in the U. S. for enjoying the ocean all the year round, we have thus far practically passed up cashing in on the great asset that we have, he declared. The public cannot use the beaches unless facilities are provided for such use, he said.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Arnold Morss, formerly of Shafter, Calif., a guest of R. E. Reed; Jack Stevenson of Ocean Beach, a guest of Glen Jones and Dr. Earl Andreen of La Jolla, Kiwanis club, a guest of Clarence Swenson.

At next week's meeting, Ladies' night will be observed, with the Ocean Beach Kiwani-Annes as guests of the club.

Plan Mills Mansion For Boarding House

Plans were announced last week whereby the former John P. Mills mansion at 1203 Sunset Cliffs Blvd. will become a boarding house. The announcement was made in connection with the application by Mrs. Edith Wahlberg, the present occupant of the home, to the city zoning committee, for a change in the zoning status which would enable her to carry on a boarding house there. A hearing on the application will be held April 11.

The application recalls the home's glamour days, when Mills rose to wealth as a southern California realty operator with Alexander Pantages and Jesse Shreve.

Mills was known as the developer of Sunset Cliffs.

Bottleneck Near Dana Junior High Being Eliminated

The narrow bottleneck on Macaulay St. east of Dana Junior high school is being widened, thanks to the cooperation of U. S. Marine Corps Engineers and city officials. The Marine Corps was in need of the dirt and is scooping out the hillside with a power shovel and hauling it away in big trucks. A power line pole will be moved over out of the street right-of-way and City Manager Fred Rhodes will have a temporary sidewalk laid by the city engineering department which will make it unnecessary for Dana students and other pedestrians to walk in the street.

The sidewalk north of the junior high school will be extended along the playground to the limit of the fence by the Board of Education this summer, according to Principal Clarence R. Swenson. He wishes to express his great appreciation to all who have cooperated in eliminating this serious hazard to the safety of hundreds of school children using Macaulay St. on their way to and from school.

Voters To Pass On Two Bond Issues Tuesday, April 17

Prop. Two Calls For $2,000,000 For Bay Development

Presented to the voters Tuesday, April 17, will be two propositions involving bond issues.

Prop. 1 calls for issuance of $6,000,000 in bonds for construction of pipe lines, a filtering plant and regulating reservoir. Prop. 2 provides $2,000,000 for carrying out the first phase of the program to develop Mission Bay into the finest land and water recreational center in the United States.

Presented briefly herewith are the essential facts concerning both programs as outlined by the Citizens' committee named by Mayor Harley E. Knox to work for the success of the propositions.

Supporting the mayor's committee, and calling on the citizens of Ocean Beach to vote "yes" on both propositions, is a local group composed of Harry Masters, Dr. W. B. Oster, Martin Murphy, Milton Lancaster, Jerry Sullivan and F. F. Swan.

Prop. 2 being of special interest to Ocean Beach is explained first as follows:

Project Items Listed

The Mission Bay development project embraces picnic grounds, safe swimming areas, yacht basins for large and small boats, aquarium amusement center, sailboat courses, marine starium, wild life preserves, bath houses, rowing course, riding stables and bridle paths, airfield, hydroplane area, golf course, ball park, power boat course, and miscellaneous facilities.

Prop. 2 is the initial phase of a Mission Bay development that eventually will represent an investment of $10,000,000, which will pay for itself many times over in dividends in the form of public enjoyment and business opportunities.

The Mission Bay project fits perfectly into the postwar picture of the greater San Diego that is to be. It will provide many opportunities for investment, and create jobs.

Approval of Prop. 2 will give the "go" signal for starting work on the project. It provides for the purchase of rights of way, filling of adjacent land, bulkheads, jetties, highways and streets, parking lots, utilities, drainage, lighting facilities, buildings and incidental expenses.

Under the comprehensive plans prepared by the City Planning commission, a flood control channel is marked for the San Diego river, and entrance to Mission Bay will be through an ocean-to-bay

GOD IS MY CO-PILOT

By COL. ROBERT L. SCOTT

WNU Features.

CHAPTER IX: Burma is [illegible] into the hands of the Japs. Flying over bombed and burned Chinese towns they land at Schwebo. Scott meets General Stilwell and his party.

CHAPTER X: Scott's group carries refugees out of Burma, heavily overloading the planes. He pays a visit to Gen. Chennault and tells him he is a fighter pilot and not a ferry pilot and is promised the next P-40 that arrives from Africa.

CHAPTER XI: Open season on Japs—the big adventure is near. Scott gets his first Jap—an army bomber on the ground. He burns up some Jap trucks and a fuel dump.

sympathizers had managed to get my range.

Later in the week, the RAF Group Captain told me that his Commandos in Myitkyina were going to knock holes in all the fuel tins with picks before they left the field to the Japs. Nevertheless I kept watching the gasoline stores while the Japs moved to the North. On May 8, when I got in my ship and started the Allison, my friend the Group Captain ran across the field to tell me that the Japs could not get the gasoline—it had been destroyed without fire, and thus the villagers would not be panicked. Over the roar of the engine I yelled that in that case it would not burn when I fired into it. For I had waited long enough; the Japs were in Myitkyina and I wasn't taking any chances on their acquiring over 100,000 gallons of aviation fuel less than two hundred miles from our base.

When I came over the field at Myitkyina, the enemy fired at me while I was yet ten miles away; I could see the black bursts of the 37 mm AA in front and below me. I started "jinking" and moved to the Northeast, so that I could come from out of the sun and be as far as I could get from the field. With my first burst the whole woods seemed to blow up—I have never seen such a flash as that which came when that veritable powder-train of high octane fuel caught fire from the tracers. I also fired at two of the gun installations on the field. But the bursts from the Jap guns were so close to me that I decided to let well enough alone, and turned for home in Assam. Many times on the way home I looked over my shoulder, and the smoke from the thousands of gallons of gasoline was visible when I was sixty miles from Myitkyina.

Next day, May 9, I made four raids into Burma. On the first of these I escorted two transports piloted by Sartz and Sexton to Paoshan, where they were going to land to pickup the baggage of the AVG, who were going on to Kunming. I waited for them to land and take off again, and then called goodby. They were going on East within the air controlled by the AVG, and I wanted to look for Japs to the South anyway. Two hours later Paoshan was badly bombed by the Japs; and so I missed a good party by not staying around.

CHAPTER XII

After following the Salween to the South until I could see Lashio, I turned West for [illegible] field and came in right on the treetops, strafing the anti-aircraft guns in two passes. On the second run across the field I felt and heard bullets hitting my ship, but didn't see their origin until nearly too late. Down close to the West end of the field, almost under the trees, were Japanese ground soldiers. They were grouped into two squares like the old Macedonian phalanx, and were firing rifles at me. I turned my guns on them and could see the fifty-calibre fire taking good toll from the Jap ranks. But even after I had made three runs on them, I noted that they continued to hold their positions, an excellent demonstration of perfect battle discipline. Later on one of the AVG aces, Tex Hill, told me that he had seen the same thing down in Thailand, and that after he'd strafed one of the squares of about a hundred men and there were only two or three on their feet, those few still were shooting at him when he left the field.

Leaving Lashio, I went to Katha looking for a Jap train on the railway, but succeeded only in gathering a little more ground-fire. From there I went back North to Bhamo, and seeing no barges, continued on to Myitkyina, keeping very close to the surface of the Irrawaddy, and strafed the gun positions of the enemy on the field with the last of my ammunition. When I landed I had made almost eight hundred miles, which is just about the limit for a fighter ship, especially since I had strafed at full throttle for several minutes. There were a few holes in my ship, but mostly in the fabric of the rudder and the flippers. The Japs couldn't learn to lead me enough; I guess they'd never hunted game birds.

In less than an hour I took off again and made a shorter trip to Mogaung and Katha, searching without success for a train. After getting more fuel I went back and strafed Myitkyina, turned South, and caught a barge of enemy equipment at Bhamo. Though I didn't sink this

A young serviceman, whose chest is covered with medals, and who has been home on furlough for a rest, is now returning to the front and would like to take along a small radio that he and his buddies could enjoy. Has anyone a radio they can spare him? This would be one way to show our gratitude.

Our Easter cakes and cookies were very nice and we decorated them and our boxes for the occasion. There was only one shadow in the affair and that was the fact that not enough Easter cards were sent in. Now don't let this happen on Mothers Day. We want every boy to have a card to send home to his mother. Please remember this.

So much plasma and whole blood is needed that every one who can qualify should go to the center and give a pint to save a life.

Through the kindness of Ocean Beach business people we were able to send in seven lamps and have two more being repaired.

Golf clubs are so badly needed as are abalone and sea shells. The latter are for the rehabilitation ward. Red Cross needs rubber balls of various sizes that wounded men who have injured hands can hold so that they can recover the use of their hand muscles.

Please take note of the articles Red Cross needs and see if yo cannot supply some of them.

Musical instruments and record albums are badly needed. Red Cross goes with your men folks and you are the Red Cross. Don't fail them.

PERSONALS..

Jean C. Young of 4405 Narragansett Ave., who has been in the Naval hospital for three weeks, is reported slightly improved. He is the owner of Young's service station at 4694 Voltaire St.

Mrs. Marc Strauss of 4414 Newport Ave. was able to come home Tuesday afternoon from Paradise Valley hospital, where she had been undergoing treatment since Sunday, when she was taken ill. Marc reports her considerably improved.

City Councilman Walter W. Austin and Mrs. Austin have gone to Palm Springs for a six weeks sojourn in the hope of benefitting his health. The Austins are former residents of Ocean Beach and their son, Edgar, is a resident of this community.

J. E. Dunbar was over from Long Beach, Calif. Monday attending to business matters here. He moved from Ocean Beach six years ago after nearly 25 years of residence here. He first came to this community in 1913, he said, when the only business house on Newport Ave. was Faber's grocery store. Dunbar built several homes here, he said, all of which he has sold. His last residence here was at 4836 W. Point Loma Blvd.

The Five Ages Of Man

"Daddy, I know how to do everything," said the little boy of 5.

"What I don't know isn't worth knowing," said the young man of 20.

"Well, anyway, I do know my trade from A to Z," said the man of 35.

"There are very few matters, I am sorry to say, that I am really quite sure about," said the man of 50.

"I have learned a bit, but not much, since I was born: knowledge is so vast that one cannot become wise in a short lifetime," said the man of 65.

One of the silly stories going the rounds is about the traveler in the middle of the Sahara desert who came upon a man in a bathing suit.

"Where on earth are you going?" demanded the traveler.

"Swimming" replied the one in the swim suit.

"But," said the traveler, "you are a hundred miles from the sea."

"Yes," replied the other. "Wide beach, isn't it?"

Financing Home To Be Subject Monday Of Planners Talks

Modern methods of financing the home will be the subject for the regular weekly meeting of the Home Planners' Institute to be held Monday evening, April 9, at the Ocean Beach elementary school, according to Frank Lockett, Institute manager. Featured speakers for the two-hour program will be W. L. Clark, home finance consultant for one of San Diego's leading home loan institutions, and Harry Haelsig of San Diego's City Planning commission.

Clark's talk will cover the various available plans of home financing, services rendered by leading institutions, definitions and explanation of a mortgage, and proper amounts to invest. Haelsig will speak on building laws, permits, and how these restrictions operate to the advantage of the home owner.

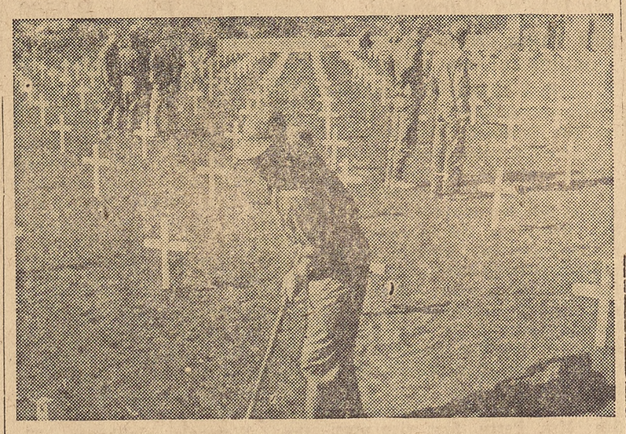
Both speakers are being brought to residents of Ocean Beach and Mission Beach as a part of the program sponsored by the Home Planners' Institute to encourge better home building in this area and to create a backlog of new homes to be built that will provide employment after the war. The Institute is sponsored by leading San Diego County industries, and its free programs are presented through the adult education program.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allies Close on Ruhr Valley; Japs Gird for U. S. Invasion; Forecast Cut in Grain Acreage

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Indicative of high cost of taking Iwo Jima is this marine graveyard on the island, with row upon row of little white crosses. Approximately 4,000 Americans were killed in the struggle.

EUROPE:
Ruhr Target

To 60-year-old Field Marshal Albert Kesselring went the hapless job of assuming supreme command of German armies in the west as U. S. and British forces closed on the vital Ruhr valley after having conquered the coal and iron rich Saar basin to the southwest.

Kesselring

In picking Kesselring to try to hold the sagging German front in the west, Hitler chose an ardent Nazi, who gained notice through his development of strong defensive lines in Italy. Trusted by the Nazis to stand fast in the face of the overwhelming Allied onslaught, Kesselring succeeded Field Marshal Von Rundstedt, who was relieved of his command following reports that he had failed to negotiate an armistice with General Eisenhower.

As Kesselring took over the German command, his hard-pressed forces faced the Canadian 1st, British 2nd and U. S. 9th armies on the western border of the Ruhr, while the U. S. 1st army built up strength for a drive to the south of the vital industrial valley from its Remagen bridgehead.

Following a tremendous concerted aerial bombardment aimed at softening up the enemy's rear areas, these four Allied armies stood ready to strike to the east of the Rhine and break into the open German plains on the high road to Berlin. Farther to the south, the U. S. 3rd and 7th armies, having cleaned out the Saar, drew up against the forested mountain country to the east of the Rhine in this sector.

Double Trouble

Thus, while Kesselring had his hands full trying to hold the Allied armies off from the open northern plains, German commanders in the east experienced equal difficulty meeting the Russian onslaught over the other end of the level northern country in the east. From Stettin southward, the Reds menaced the serried defenses of Berlin while the Nazis still talked about a last ditch fight behind concrete pillboxes, bunkers, tank traps and irrigated flat land.

Though massed in the greatest strength before Berlin, the Reds also exerted considerable pressure to the south, seeking to batter their way through the mountain masses in Upper Silesia to enter Czechoslovakia, and smashing at German defenses in western Hungary in an effort to reach Austria.

U. S. SAVINGS:
In Billions

With a wartime economy restricting the supply of civilian goods, and income at peak levels, Americans continued to pour billions of dollars into savings, the Securities and Exchange commission reported.

With Americans putting away nearly 25 per cent of their incomes in cash, bank deposits and government securities within the last two and one-half years, total holdings of these assets reached 148 billion dollars at the end of 1944.

In saving 40 billion dollars last year, 10 times as much as in 1940, Americans amassed an additional 17 billions in cash and bank deposits; 15 billions in government bonds; 3½ billions in insurance, and 900 millions in savings and loans associations.

CITY EMPLOYEES

The 852,000 employees of the nation's cities and towns draw a monthly payroll of $122,000,000, the International City Managers association reported. Despite the decline in number of employees, however, the total payroll has shown a steady advance during the last two years.

Accompanying the general decline in number of municipal employees was a general increase in length of the regular, or normal work-week for city hall personnel, though much occurred in the smaller cities.

PACIFIC:
Fear Invasion

Making no bones about their fear of an invasion of their homeland, the Japanese government moved feverishly to prepare the country for the eventuality, while at the same time pushing efforts to organize occupied China against a thrust from U. S. forces.

Her predicament underlined by the U. S.'s gradual advance toward the homeland, and the destructive aerial raids on her great urban centers, Japan's leaders called for the establishment of virtual martial law in the country, permitting expropriation of land and demolition of buildings for defense purposes.

Though high military authorities believe that Japan, like Germany, will not be bombed out of the war because of the decentralization of her industry, U. S. attacks have cut into some of the enemy's productive capacity, besides causing serious civilian dislocations. Already, almost half of Tokyo's civilian population has been evacuated, it was said.

Besides impairing the home effort, such raids as the recent carrier plane attacks on the Japs' great inner naval base in the Inland sea bounded by the home islands of Honshu, Kyushu and Shikoku serve not only to cripple the enemy fleet but also damage important repair and anchorage facilities.

Although the Japs feel that any direct assault on the homeland would give them the advantage of short supply lines and land bases from which to develop counter-measures, they are looking worriedly to the Chinese coast, where they believe the U. S. might drive ashore to set up invasion bases.

Thus, high military authorities presume, the enemy will continue to play for time in such outlying battle zones as the Philippines and Burma to permit further development of Chinese resources and additions to the 500,000 Chinese troops reportedly fighting for them so as to be better able to meet an invasion of that country.

CROP ACREAGE:
To Drop

Because of a decrease in hog numbers in their own lots, an expected drop in demand for feed grains and a switchover to crops with lower labor requirements, farmers will put fewer acres to important grain in 1945, the U. S. department of agriculture reported.

Basing its report on farmers' declarations of intentions, the USDA said that corn acreage would be down 3 per cent under 1944, barley 14 per cent, and soybeans 2½ per cent. As exceptions, wheat acreage was expected to increase 4½ per cent and oats 8 per cent.

In addition, the USDA's reports on acreages for other crops showed general decreases from last year, with increases forecast only for sugar beets, flaxseed, tobacco and rice.

With the weather generally favorable, finances ample and seed and feed plentiful, chief obstacles to 1945 production lie in manpower and machinery shortages, the USDA declared. Indicated acreages in declarations of intentions might be notably changed through the year, the USDA said, in accordance with influences in weather, price fluctuations, manpower, finances and the effect of the report itself on farmers' plans.

Staples Output . . . .

Wool production declined along with sheep numbers in the United States in 1944 with production, both shorn and pulled, estimated at 418,094,000 pounds compared with 449,578,000 pounds produced in 1943. Average local market prices in 1944 were 42.4 cents per pound, however, compared with 41.6 cents per pound in 1943. Number of sheep shorn is estimated at 9 per cent less than 1943 or 44,324,000 head.

VICTORY—IS WHEN THE BOYS COME HOME—

The war is never finished for soldiers as long as they are being shot at. And even the advent of victory in Germany isn't going to end the shooting entirely, it appears.

Through some peculiar psychology long fostered by Hitler among his people, defeat seems real only to those Nazis who have no guns. And not all are expected to have handed them over many weeks from now. While it is doubted by our military heads in the European theatre that any great segment of the German people will enter, as ordered, into guerrilla warfare against the Allies, some fanatics are expected to carry on the fight from an organized underground already functioning, until they are either killed or captured.

The danger of assuming here that complete German resistance has awaited only the signal to surrender, and would end on the spot when it came, has worried our military considerably. Nothing, they felt, short of Allied withdrawal from German soil, would have been quite so valuable to the Nazis at the height of the Rhine crossing, as an Allied frenzy of premature peace celebration and a sudden slackening of war production just when our attenuated supply lines needed strengthening most.

While any member of the Allied occupation forces still face snipers' bullets, the war will not be over in Germany. When that danger is past, when the underground lairs are smoked out and our boys head for home again, the European end of the war will be finished in reality, and victory truly will be ours.

THE COLONELS GO TO WAR—

Argentina's ruling clique of fascist colonels have climbed reluctantly off the Axis bandwagon and have declared war against Germany and Japan.

There is little reason to believe, however, that they are any less fascist now than they were when they allowed German agents to carry on their activities in this hemisphere to the detriment of the Allied cause.

The simple fact is that the colonels of Argentina found that living "out in the cold" from the other nations of North and South America had become a little too much even for them to bear. And they knew that as time went on, the atmosphere would get still colder if they didn't mend their ways. So they have done some mending—in form, if not in fact.

But, the mere declaration of war against the Axis at this time doesn't mean much now that Hitler and Hirohito have been battered into near helplessness. The colonels could best express a valid reformation by permitting genuinely free elections in Argentina and by cleaning out the Hitlerites, who it is reported, were sent to that country to form the nucleus for the rebirth of Nazism at some future time.

The colonels have made a step in the right direction, but they still have a long way to go.

The Ann Cordingly Camp of the Royal Neighbors will hold their monthly business meeting Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Women's clubhouse. The Fraternal Congress of San Diego held a meeting in the Navy Mothers' club which Mrs. June Stevens, representing the Ann Cordingly camp, attended. The subject under discussion was Bill No. 489 that is up before the State Assembly proposing to tax insurance companies operating in the state of California. The bill is being vigorously opposed by various organizations in the city.

Voters To Pass On 2 Bond Issues

channel at the southern tip of Mission Beach strand.

The Citizens' Committee explains Prop. No. 1 as follows:

Urgent Water Needs

Water requirements of San Diego, teeming war production and military center, are greater than the present facilities for delivery from the city's reservoirs. This is particularly true of the situation as it pertains to San Vicente and El Capitan reservoirs.

The problem involved is not one of developing additional water resources in the county, but of assuring ample supply for war plants, the military, and civilian consumers. Existing facilities for delivery and treatment of water, which would have sufficed for the community under normal conditions, are totally inadequate to meet the demands imposed by San Diego's emergence as a key point in the nation's war effort.

Upon the urgent recommendations of the city hydraulic engineer, city manager and city council, in which Rear Adm. W. W. Friedell, commandant of the 11th Naval district, concurs, this proposition will be submitted to the voters a week from Tuesday:

Additional pipe lines for delivery of Colorado river water from the proposed San Diego aqueduct or from San Vicente reservoir, to the city distribution system, $4,050,000.

Treatment plant with capacity of 60 million gallons per day for Colorado river and local water brought to the city through the above pipe lines, $1,875,000.

Regulating reservoir with 20 million gallon capacity located at the treatment plant for use in meeting peak demands, $300,000. The three make a total of $6,225,000.

Of the above, $225,000 will be met by budget allotments.

This summer it is estimated the daily peak consumption of water will approach 65 million gallons. With preesnt filtering equipment operating at full efficiency, probably half of the peak gallonage, chlorinated but not filtered, will be drawn through city faucets.

Approval of Prop. 1, it is contended, will constitute another important step in keeping San Diego's all-important water problem abreast of the times and the needs.

Brave little Hearts that will Never Forget!

Hard and cruel have been the lives of young ones in war-torn countries. Children like these—30 million of them—are hungry, homeless, nearly naked. Deaths from exposure are often as many as deaths from starvation. Tuberculosis and typhus run rampant among them.

Never will their brave hearts forget the horrors of war. Never will their grateful hearts forget your gift of the clothing they so sorely need—clothing which now hangs unused in your closet—or reposes forgotten in your attic.

And remember, these pitiful children of today will be our proud partners of tomorrow in keeping the permanent peace we are all fighting for! Isn't their everlasting friendship worth your spare clothing?

America must help clothe about 125 million men, women, and children in Europe alone. This month, America must collect 150 million pounds of serviceable used clothing to take care of part of their needs.

Some of that clothing must be yours—as much as you can spare.

Will you do your share today?

What YOU Can Do!

1. Get together all the serviceable used summer and winter clothing you can spare. This includes: Men's, women's, children's, and infants' wear, and shoes. Overcoats, topcoats, suits, dresses, shirts, skirts, jackets, pants, work clothes, gloves, underwear, sleeping garments, robes, sweaters, shawls, and all knit goods. Also blankets, bedclothes.
2. Take your contribution to your Local COLLECTION DEPOT now or arrange to have your LOCAL COMMITTEE collect it before April 30th.
3. Support your Local Committee not only with your clothing contribution but also with your time, effort, and energy.

OCEAN BEACH SCHOOL NEWS

"Gulliver's Travels," a technicolor sound feature picture was shown at the Ocean Beach school auditorium April 4. There were two performances in the afternoon and two evening showings. The picture provided wholesome entertainment for the whole family and proceeds from the shows will be used for beautification of the Elementary school grounds. Trees, bushes, and flowers will be purchased. The necessity for a new attempt at improving the school grounds is explained by these student reports:

"Mr. Varney, from the U. S. Forest Service, gave Ocean Beach school nine trees, including two cork oaks and seven Tar trees from Brazil. We wanted the trees to beautify our playgrounds. We planted them all over so that we could have shade most everywhere, but during Easter vacation, someone uprooted these young trees that the gardener had so carefully planted. We found them the next week and we replanted them. We do not know if they will grow again."—Caroylnn Brenneis.

"The Ocean Beach school students were very disappointed when they went out to recess and found all the trees but one pulled up. These trees are very young and we do not know if they will survive. Ocean Beach should be too proud of its buildings to allow these things to happen."
